DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a Final Office Action in response to Applicant's Remarks of August 08, 2006. Claims 1-34 are pending. Claims 1, 11, 15, 25 and 34 are independent claims.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments regarding claims 1-34, including:
- a. "each of the orders includes a timestamp from one of a plurality of agents in the network"
 - b. "qualifying orders using a time analysis system"
 - c. "a time analysis that examines each order submitted during a current trading interval to determine if the submitted order qualifies for the call auction at the end of the current trading interval"
 - d. "the system executes a series of call auctions during sequential trading intervals" have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

3. Issue no. (a): Applicant's argue: Madoff does not teach: each of the orders includes a timestamp from one of a plurality of agents in the network as recited in the claims. Response: The Examiner is entitled to give the claim limitations their broadest reasonable interpretation in light of the Specification (see below):

Claim Interpretation; Broadest Reasonable Interpretation:

<CLAIMS MUST BE GIVEN THEIR BROADEST REASONABLE INTERPRETATION

During patent examination, the pending claims must be “given the broadest reasonable interpretation consistent with the specification.” Applicant always has the opportunity to amend the claims during prosecution and broad interpretation by the examiner reduces the possibility that the claim, once issued, will be interpreted more broadly than is justified. In re Prater, 162 USPQ 541, 550-51 (CCPA 1969).>

Madoff does disclose each order including a timestamp from one of a plurality of agents in the network. Madoff teaches a timestamp from an agent of the network. The number of agent or agents employed in timestamping the order is a business choice. (Madoff, page 6, 0055-0057). Conclusion: Under their broadest reasonable interpretation in light of the Specification, the claims are taught and no inventive concept is found. Applicant's are respectfully requested to point out to the Examiner which claim limitations in the claims are considered to be the inventive concept because the inventive concept can not be determined from the claim limitations as written.

4. Issue no. (b) and (c): Applicant's argue: Madoff does not teach: qualifying orders and determining if orders can be executed using a time analysis system as recited in the claims and a time analysis that examines each order submitted during a current trading interval to determine if the submitted order qualifies for the call auction at the end of the current trading interval. Response: The Examiner is entitled to give the claim limitations their broadest reasonable interpretation in light of the Specification (see below):

Madoff does disclose qualifying orders using a time analysis system. Madoff teaches qualifying orders using an order acceptance process system and this system additionally has a lock-in period, which can be seen as a time analysis system. (Madoff, page 5, 0043-0046). Conclusion: Under their broadest reasonable interpretation in light of the Specification, the claims are taught and no inventive concept is found. Applicant's are respectfully requested to point out to the Examiner which claim limitations in the claims are considered to be the inventive concept because the inventive concept can not be determined from the claim limitations as written.

Madoff does disclose the system executes a series of call auctions during sequential trading intervals. Madoff teaches call auctions which could be replicated during sequential trading periods. (Madoff, page 1, 0014-0015; page 2, 0016-0017).

Conclusion: Under their broadest reasonable interpretation in light of the Specification, the claims are taught and no inventive concept is found. Applicant's are respectfully requested to point out to the Examiner which claim limitations in the claims are considered to be the inventive concept because the inventive concept can not be determined from the claim limitations as written.

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
